With the FSA sticking to the 2013 implementation date for the Retail Distribution Review, the distribution industry must continue full steam ahead with its preparations for the new regime. The best providers and intermediaries need to ensure they are prepared to comply and flourish under the RDR, which poses as many opportunities as challenges. The consequences of the new regime will also be felt more widely than the traditional third-party model. How will the importance of the Direct-2-Consumer channel develop? What role will banks look to play? What is the future for platforms? Answering all these questions and more, with a specialised stream on bancassurance and a dedicated 'Advisor Forum' for intermediaries, this conference took an in-depth look at the whole industry landscape. FEIFA members received a 10% discount. For more information visit: www.marketforce.eu.com/distribution.
