

FEIFA

The Federation of European Independent Financial Advisers

The background of the lower half of the page is a photograph of two business professionals in suits shaking hands. The image is overlaid with a semi-transparent orange and blue gradient. In the bottom right corner, a clipboard with a chart is visible.

Benefits of FEIFA membership for clients and consumers

Benefits for clients and consumers

FEIFA provides numerous benefits for its members, which in turn, can create significant advantages for consumers, as follows:

- Security – membership of FEIFA adds a further layer of comfort to prospective and existing clients. Membership confirms that at least one independent organisation has vetted the company and found that it meets its criteria. Membership is only available at the Federation's discretion.
- Training – we assist our members in numerous ways with regards to ongoing professional development. Via our Annual Conference, regular Masterclass seminars and webinars, plus a monthly members' magazine we keep our advisers at the forefront of industry and financial planning knowledge and expertise.
- Product Access – FEIFA strives to ensure that its members have the widest possible access to financial products and funds. This provides our members and their clients with greater choices and opportunities that might not be available elsewhere.
- Information – the Federation regularly disseminates industry and product information to members. This, along with the above-mentioned training, provides peace of mind to consumers that FEIFA's members are constantly updating and enhancing their technical knowledge.
- Brexit – FEIFA has created a number of services for our advisers in order to help them mitigate the risks of advising across the UK-EU "border", in the wake of the Brexit agreement. For instance, our unique Brexit Hub provides them with regulatory and legal information, and guidance, whilst also enabling professional collaboration, with EU-based advisers able to assist those located in the UK, and vice versa.

Please note: The acceptance of a person (including an incorporated or unincorporated body of persons) as a Member of FEIFA does not imply any representation or warranty by FEIFA as to the financial soundness of that person or any other matter. Accordingly, FEIFA will not be liable for any loss, damage, cost or expense whatsoever incurred by anyone as a result of dealings with any such person.
